I oppose the development of the Yucca Mountain Nuclear waste disposal site for reasons which include an opposition to transporting nuclear waste across the country and an opposition to building a disposal site when the current nuclear plants should be able to hold the waste.

Primarily, I oppose the site because transporting nuclear waste across the country presents a dangerous proposition for citizens since such transportation could be subject to terrorist attack or to accident, in which case we might see nuclear waste spread into ~~communities~~. Why take this risk when presumably the nuclear waste generators, the nuclear plants, should be able to safely contain the waste, a task that presumably was part of their design?

Sincerely,

Blake Jacquot
